Students spent time with migrant kids and explores the talents and artists within themselves, team engaged kids by conducting various games, followed by craft session like Origami, Boats, Rocket paper, etc.,. The hidden talents were enlightened and the kids came up with very surprizing and interesting ideas. The best ones were chosen by the judge and rewarded them. Then few moral stories were portrayed, kids enjoyed the stories and understood the moral of it. Kids were taught rhymes and dance, pencil and chocolates were distributed all the kids as part of gratitude and the winners were awarded with a box of crayons as prizes. It was not only about the fun but also the lesson taught and also learnt. Students got introduced to many talents who have great desire on achieving in future through their god given gifts.

Due to their parent's migration in work, kids won't get a proper education flow which leads to lack of concentration in studies and interest towards it. There is no permanent solution to this problem, but for the sake of their kids, parents need to make alternative method from which their work doesn't have an adverse effect on their kid's future. Parents must be aware of importance of education and should focus on building up a bright career for their kids; instead of making them do labour. It's the responsibility of them to educate their kids than promoting child labour. The literacy level has gradually come down due to lack of knowledge in parents about educating kids, With this view our students educated parents about the importance of education in their kids. A brave step must be taken to inculcate the career responsibility in each and every individual. If a house is educated, then certainly the nation does.
